WHY IS FLEA PROTECTION IMPORTANT FOR MY PET?

Fleas are more than just a nuisance - they are parasites that can lead to serious illnesses in your pets.

- Each female flea on an untreated pet can lay over 40 eggs per day,¹ which can quickly lead to an infestation.
- By the time you see a flea, an infestation may already be established in the environment.
- Flea infestations can take weeks to resolve and be expensive to eliminate.
- Carpets, bedding and furniture provide ideal conditions for immature fleas to develop into adults.

DID YOU KNOW? You can't keep your pet from picking up fleas. But you can make sure those fleas are killed quickly, before they can reproduce!

BITING ADULTS MAKE UP ONLY A SMALL FRACTION OF A FLEA INFESTATION:

- ✓ Once adult fleas find a suitable host, such as a cat, they will typically remain on that animal. These adult fleas can live for 100+ days² leading to a massive number of flea eggs.
- ✓ Eggs will fall off of an infested animal into the pet's surroundings. These eggs will usually hatch into larvae in 1-10 days.²
- ✓ The flea larval stage usually lasts 5-11 days before molting into pupae.²
- ✓ Pupae can survive for weeks to months in the environment,² waiting for suitable conditions to emerge as new adult fleas.
- ✓ The fleas you see are only ~5% of the problem.

WHY IS TICK PROTECTION IMPORTANT FOR MY PET?

Ticks aren't just gross – they're dangerous parasites that can lead to serious diseases in pets, including ehrlichiosis, anaplasmosis, tularemia and cytauxzoonosis.

In certain areas, ticks can be a year-round threat. They are more numerous and found in more geographic areas than ever before.

Even in urban areas, ticks can be brought into your yard by many tick hosts, including feral cats, white-tailed deer, raccoons, wild turkeys and coyotes.³

FRONTLINE Gold protects pets from fleas AND 4 common species of ticks.

DID YOU KNOW? Black-legged (deer) ticks now inhabit twice as many counties as they did 20 years ago, and are reported in over 45% of U.S. counties.⁴

FRONTLINE® GOLD FOR CATS KILLS ALL PARASITIC STAGES OF TICKS. Some of the ticks that pose the greatest threats to pets in the U.S. are:³

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

Can I apply FRONTLINE Gold for Cats anywhere on my pet's fur?

No. FRONTLINE Gold for Cats has to be applied directly to your pet's skin, between the shoulder blades. Be sure to place the applicator tip all the way through the animal's fur to the skin before applying. Read the product label, which includes application instructions, before every use.

Why am I seeing fleas on my pet?

You are likely seeing NEW fleas on your pet, which are jumping on your pet as it moves through infested areas in and around your home. These fleas will be killed by FRONTLINE Gold before they can reproduce. Depending on the severity of the existing infestation, you may continue to see new fleas jumping on your pet for up to 3 months. To help prevent new infestations, continue to apply FRONTLINE Gold MONTHLY throughout the year.

Do I need to use FRONTLINE Gold for Cats on my indoor-only cat?

Yes. Although your cat may not go outside, fleas can get inside. They can infest your untreated cat, leading to an infestation in your home.
